Quotation: Love ever hurt never.

Story:

Baba is so kind not only to us but also to all living creatures. Once our beloved Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba stayed for few days in Horsley hills, a holiday resort near Madanapalli in Andhra Pradesh. Many devotees came and stayed there as long Swami was there. They enjoyed the good fortune and the calm atmosphere at Horsley hills. After a few days Baba decided to leave. At the time of departure, Baba asked the devotees to wait for a while and went towards the garden. Out of curiosity few of the devotees followed Baba to see what He was going to do.

They saw Baba standing near a buffalo under a tree and bidding farewell to it. He patted on its back affectionately and uttered, you have served me so well, Bangaroo! The buffalo attracted the abundant grace of Bhagawan for its silent work. As they stayed in a high mountain surrounded by hillocks, no other vehicles except a jeep could go up to that place. Even food and drinking water had to be brought up from the foothills. This buffalo did the service of bringing water for Baba and the devotees, carrying leather bags filled with water, a number of times from the foothills. As a result of its service, it attracted the kind attention of Baba and earned His grace.
